

Mission Statement

The Poor People's Economic Human Rights Campaign is committed to unite the poor across color lines as the leadership base for a broad movement to abolish poverty. We work to accomplish this through advancing economic human rights as named in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, such as the rights to food, housing, health, education, communication and a living wage job.

National Education, Organizing, Arts and Culture Center

Zero Evictions and Foreclosures Training in February 2010.

Education for Empowerment

The Poor People's Economic Human Rights Campaign (PPEHRC) is the nation's largest organization working to end poverty that is actually led by poor people. We are a coalition of over 125 poor people's groups and allies from across the country.

At our new National Center in Philadelphia we will connect poor people and their organizations with media professionals, artists, students, social workers, members of the religious community, teachers, and labor leaders to provide critical exchanges that develop the leadership, analysis, strategy, relationships, resources, and skills necessary to build the movement to end poverty.

Register for a Course

Anyone may attend our free school. Classes are available in Spanish. Please contact us now for more information and to register for any of these courses:

Zero Evictions and Foreclosures

Stay in your home after it's been foreclosed. When other options don't work, use nonviolent civil disobedience to challenge the banks, resist eviction, and build community support to keep your house.

Community Organizing

Pick an issue, launch a campaign, mobilize the community, and win victories.

Media and Communication

Use independent and corporate media to successfully share your story with the world.

Marching for economic human rights in Philadelphia.

Nonviolent Civil Disobedience

Use nonviolence to dramatize and escalate your struggle, pressure power holders, and win change.

Youth Empowerment

(for youth participants and allies)
Support youth leadership and be a young leader in your community.

All courses involve the leadership of poor people and offer you and your group:

- Leadership development
- Skills training
- Tools and resources
- Movement building
